Just now, there's a whole lot of otherwise puffed-up good people who are allowing their names to get all hot up-over a piece of business which don't seem to be any of their concern. Every one in awhile we see be the daily another Local has butted in on that $250 proposition. First, 'twas the Huggs Holly Local, then the Clover Bar tenders Local, and now 'tis the Sparrow Local. This last bunch of bleaters say:

"We strongly protest against the action of the Provincial Progressive members in voting themselves the exorbitant sum of $250 for the five days session in connection with the Union Board."

Didn't notice the joker in this last—only the "Provincial Progressive Members" have sinned; the others ain't ast to hand back the dough at all; altho 'twas an "Independent" member who proposed putting the amount up to $250. Canya beat it?

"I jest ben atalkin' to an old fren' o' mine, a Mr. Eating, and he's awondering wot them fellers is abellering about, as he ses wed do the very same thing if we had the chanct."

'Pears to me them Sparrow bunch shore has got the rite name, as we all know wot a sparrow's a very small animal.

Yores truly, Ol' Bill.

Stony Plain Town Council.

Stony Plain Town Council held its regular monthly meeting Thursday evening last, with a good attendance of members present. The minutes of the previous regular meeting and the three special meetings were read and confirmed.

The Maynard account was up again. It having been o.k'd by the Board of Health, it was ordered to be paid to the extent of $50.

A letter was read from the Dept. of Agriculture regarding the withdrawal of certain items on the Demonstration Farm at present in the town limits. The matter was laid over for further consideration.

A number of accounts were passed and ordered paid.

The committee having in charge the matter of building the underground water tank, reported progress.

The question of procuring a further supply of fire extinguishers was up, and the Secretary was instructed to purchase one each of three different makes, for experimental purposes. In connection with the fire protection program, it is the intention of the Council to purchase standard ash receptacles, to be distributed at cost price.

When adjournment was made, a notice of motion was about to be given that any Councillor absenting himself from a regular meeting to go duck hunting, is to send a pair of mallards to the Mayor the following morning. No doubt this motion will be hotly debated, if it comes up at the next meeting.

TEA "is good tea"

Be A True Sportsman

The shooting season in Canada's Western Province is at hand and young and inexperienced sportsmen will vie with seasoned old hunters in taking toll of wild duck, prairie chicken, geese and bigger game. In many respects the West constitutes the amateur hunter's paradise. In other Provinces, to a very great extent, it is necessary for sportsmen to travel far afield from home to enjoy the hunting season, but in the Prairie West wild duck are to be found on almost every pond, slough and lake, while prairie chicken feed about the stocks of grain and roost in the little wooded bluffs which dot the farm homesteads.

These game birds are one of the assets of our Canadian West, and an asset worth protecting. Apart altogether from the sport of hunting, these birds have a high food value and are a delicacy much enjoyed by all. During the close seasons their presence adds to the picturesque of Western life and call forth expressions of interest and delight from permanent residents, visitors and tourists.

It is in the interests of all, therefore, but perhaps more particularly in the interests of the sportsmen themselves, that restraint should be exercised by all hunters at the opening of, and throughout the shooting season. Laws have been enacted restricting the period of the "open season," limiting the size of the daily and seasonal "bags," and imposing penalties for infractions of these ordinances. Violations of these laws are, however, not always easy of detection, but it should be a part of every true sportsman's code that he observe these laws which have been enacted for his own and the public good, and that he should actively interest himself in seeing that such laws are obeyed by others, and offenders brought to book.

Old-timers can recall when the buffalo ranged over these prairies in countless thousands; so numerous in fact that any thought of the possibility of their extermination never entered the mind of anyone. Yet a comparatively few years of wanton, wholesale slaughter and the buffalo disappeared and is only to be seen today in zoological gardens and in specially prepared Government reserves. In like manner the industrious little beaver, Canada's national animal, was in danger of extermination until the killing of beaver at any and all times was prohibited.

A report recently issued by the British Columbia Government states that the famous Fraser River, the greatest river in the world for years in its yield of sockeye salmon, whose waters only a decade ago were so crowded at spawning seasons of the year that a person could literally walk across a solid mass of fish, is now fished out of sockeye, and that the Skeena River, for decades second only to the Fraser in its salmon production, has practically reached the same condition. And the salmon industry was not so long ago one of British Columbia's greatest industries, and one which advertised that Province all over the world. The men who have been responsible for this annihilating the salmon in a hurry-up get rich quick scheme have ruined not only their own business but have inflicted irreparable loss on their Province and Dominion.

There should be an object lesson in these things, the force of which should not be lost upon every man who takes out a hunter's license in the Western Provinces this year. Some men may think it smart and an evidence of great skill and marksmanship to bring down an unusually large number of birds, and to boast of their achievement, but it is something over which they should hang their heads in shame, rather than boast about it.

Shooting for the mere sake of shooting is not sport, and the man who indulges in such a practice is not a true sportsman. And most assuredly he is not the friend of sportsmen, because sooner or later the inevitable result will be to deprive everybody of a legitimate means of sport, and to rob this country of what has already been described as a very valuable asset.

Game guardians should be accorded every possible support by all true sportsmen and lovers of wild life. Instead of assisting offenders against our game laws to escape detection and the just penalty for their infractions of the law, people generally should co-operate to expose these lawless ones and bring them to justice.

The West can ill afford to have our game birds go the way of the buffalo, the beaver and the sockeye salmon. Strict observance of existing game laws by sportsmen, and the exposure of the few who consider their momentary pleasure to the rights and interests of others and who by their acts jeopardize the future, will assure to the Western Provinces an ever-continuing pleasure and guarantee a retention of one of the picturesque features of the country—its wild bird life.

New Plan to Exterminate Rodents

Use Poison Gas to Clear French Fields of Mice

The valley of Ajoie, on the Swiss-French frontier, has been invaded by thousands of mice, and the rodents are doing much damage. They are believed to have come from the trenches in Alsace. The village authorities have arranged drives by the people offering half a cent for each dead animal. Poison gas is being used and the method is to inject this into the subterranean galleries built by the mice. It has proved most effective, 37,000 dead being the record for one day.

Reported Hugo Stinnes Will Enter Pact With French Interests

Industrial leaders of Berlin, who are credited with being well-informed as regards the plans of Hugo Stinnes, Germany's leading industrialist, predict the early conclusion of a pact between Herr Stinnes and a group of French interests, represented by the Marquis de Lubersac, which will have for its object the scientific working out of a plan for the restoration of the war-devastated areas.

Meaning of Conservation

How to Make the Best Use of Our Natural Resources

Curious how many people entirely misunderstand the meaning of conservation. We hearward someone, not long ago, talking glibly of the need of conserving our forests, and it became evident that his idea was that someone should prevent the lumbermen from cutting down the trees. Conservation means, in intelligent use, as distinguished from wasteful use. Canada has been endowed by nature with incalculable natural resources, but it is more folly to brag of those resources, to pat ourselves on the back as though their possession were in some way a merit of our own, unless we are prepared to get to work and put them to the best possible use. Our waterpowers might as well be in Greenland unless we are determined to develop them, and to develop them intelligently. Our timber resources are inexhaustible if we practice conservation in their use, and that does not mean letting them alone, but cutting scientifically and adopting a policy of reforestation. Our enormous coal resources are capable of adding immensely to the national wealth, and making us independent of outside sources of supply, if we put our experts to the problem of how to make them economical accessible to the country as a whole.—Ottawa Journal.

Praise for the Sparrow

Much Maligned Bird Is Prominent Amongst Insect Destroyers

When the harbinger of spring, the robin, incurs the wrath of the farmer for its incursions into the orchard or the strawberry patch, the despised English sparrow will have difficulty in edging into his good graces. This maligned bird, however, has a friend at court, and its virtues are recited in an official report of the biological survey of the department of agriculture. The report explains that studies of birds as insect destroyers and of vermin and parasite pests, extending through a century of observation, show that all by so-called bird pests are active aids to the farmer as insect destroyers.

The survey proves that the sparrow is one of the prominent birds which feed upon the seventeen-year locust, asparagus beetle, locust, leaf miner, caterpillar, canker, army and drop worms, and that the quail, usually a seed eater, also feeds on the locust the olive scale. W. L. McAtee, of the United States biological survey, cites cases where flocks of birds have destroyed insect plagues and their eggs and larvae so completely that such species never have returned to the localities where they were causing much damage. Ordinarily, of course, the birds are not sufficiently numerous to cope with widespread insect invasions.—St. Thomas Times Journal.

A Duck's Speed

The speed at which a duck can fly is much greater than the average person would suppose. For instance, it has been estimated by a competent authority that the speed of the canvasback is ninety-eight miles per hour; that of the blue-winged teal duck, eighty-nine miles; and that of the Canada goose, seventy-six miles. These speeds are probably in excess of their average flights, however.

Federal Government Is Taking An Inventory Of Canada's Vacant Farm Lands

The Dominion of Canada, as one of the world's biggest land owners, is at present engaged in a general "stock taking" of the land still on hand in the prairie provinces.

For the guidance of future settlers, what are known as "classification surveys" are being made over large and partially settled areas, under the auspices of the Topographical Surveys Branch of the Department of the Interior, and from the results already obtained the new departure has been fully justified.

Specimens of soils are being collected over the area investigated and analysis made at a soil laboratory established for this purpose at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon. Thus the prospective homesteader may not only be informed as to the quality of the best soil, but also the crops which will yield the best returns.

The lands inspected under the new system are classified under one of the following heads:

- (1) Lands not open for homestead entry.
 - (2) Lands suitable for immediate settlement.
 - (3) Lands considered fair for settlement.
 - (4) Lands which can be economically improved.
 - (5) Lands requiring extensive improvements.
 - (6) Hay meadows.
 - (7) Grazing lands.
 - (8) Lands of no agricultural value.
- Classes Nos. 2, 4 and 5 contain an acreage of good soil, which, after clearing and improvement, will be equal in value to the average improved farm of the district. Class No. 3 contains from 20 to 30 acres of land open or ready for breaking with little preparation. Class No. 4 is covered with a light or medium growth of poplar and other timber of no commercial value, while Class No. 5 is heavily wooded with poplar and scattered spruce, birch, etc. Class No. 3 when improved will not be equal to the average improved farm of the district, owing to defective quality of cultivable land or to some deficiency in the soil. These quarters usually contain a considerable amount of open or nearly open land, and are frequently good enough for the special needs of certain classes of settlers.

In newly settled districts, homesteaders must devote practically all their limited clearings to the growth of grain crops. These are what are known as "cash" crops. For fodder dependence must be placed on the natural hay in the vicinity. Quarter sections classed as hay lands contain meadows producing natural hay which may be cut in normal years. When settlers in the vicinity have cleared a sufficient area to introduce a hay crop into their rotation, quarter sections now classed as hay lands may be put to other uses.

Quarters which, owing to inferior soil or broken and hilly surface, are unsuitable for homesteads, but which produce sufficient grass for summer pasture for the stock of adjoining homesteaders are classed as grazing lands.

Maps already published show the classification of lands by quarter sections for settlement purposes for the area in the vicinity of Winnipegosis, Manitoba, the districts around Lac la Biche, and northeast of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan; the Peace River district; the Peace River district, and the St. Paul des Metis district, Alberta. Others are in course of preparation.

Wheat for Europe

Since the opening of navigation in April 50,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped to the British Isles and Europe from the port of Montreal. The total shipments in 1921 amounted to 128,452,580 bushels, or nearly fifty million bushels more than were shipped from any other port on the North American continent. It is expected that the total shipments this year will exceed those of last season by a few million bushels.

What Laughter Does

Drives Away All Miserie and Lengthens Life

If you wish to live one hundred years, begin today and laugh. Laughter will reduce your blood pressure. Laughter drives little miseries away as the sun does late. Laughter puts every enemy off his guard. Laughter keeps your face young, your body supple and your brain brilliant. If you are down on your luck, try laughing for a week; you come up smiling. Get busy laughing—not grinning, smirking or sickly smiling, but jolly vibrating laughter. Thousands of nervous troubles would disappear if the people cultivated the art of healthful laughter.

Self-Imposed Bankruptcy

Germany Willing to See Mark Fall to Zero

The German mark was worth in exchange less than a fifth of a cent on the 7th of July. Its normal value is twenty-three and eight-tenths cents. The option is general in financial circles that the German Government has abandoned any idea of keeping up the value of the mark, and that it is quite willing to see it fall to absolute zero. That would mean international bankruptcy, but the Germans argue that it would also mean no more reparations payments in cash, and that it would oblige the Entente nations to take upon themselves the responsibility of re-organizing German finance, a task that appears to be beyond the ability—or is it the will?—of the Entente Government to perform.—Youth's Companion.

Montreal Board Of Trade Perpetuates Maisonneuve

There is a striking monument in Montreal to Maisonneuve, founder of Canada's Metropolis. As in his lifetime, his thoughts were of the West, so does the memorial to him stand today. The sculptor has caught the spirit of the adventurous pioneer in the pose of the body and the head. Vision, courage, determination are plain to the observant eye and understanding mind.

Maisonneuve and the host of gallant men and noble women who laid the foundation of the Canada of today, long ago embarked upon the greatest and last quest. But their faith in the new land is as a living flame in the hearts of their successors. They see their country favored by geography and nature, a link between East and West and extending almost 4,000 miles from ocean to ocean. They know that it is, endowed with a richness of natural resources beyond the power of man to calculate. Above all they rejoice in its attainment to a place and a voice in the councils of the nations.

Retrospect is often pleasant. The true Canadian has little time for that. His heart and mind are on the present and the future. He knows that if his country is to come to full fruition as a nation it must be by still worthier efforts on the part of its people individually and collectively. No single province within the Dominion's far-flung boundaries can afford to disregard another. Each must be in sympathy with all the rest. The East share in the problems as well as in the joys and prosperity of the West. The West must have faith in the East. Bound by an invisible but unbreakable chain of mutual affection and goodwill they can, and will, put and keep Canada in the very vanguard of the world's great nations.

The development of the national spirit has been fostered in many an hour of peril, difficulty and struggle. It is beginning to bloom in beauty and strength. Its progress has been greatly advanced of late years by the action of important organizations in sending delegations to many sections of the country, so that their members may add to their first-hand knowledge of their homeland. Such an organization is the Montreal Board of Trade which will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of its founding by beginning on September 1, a thirty days' tour of the Dominion. The members will not only see the country in all the glory of its most beautiful scenic settings, but the journey will be so arranged as to give them a new perspective of its wealth of soil, forests, mines and waters, and impressions of its industrial and commercial growth that would be impossible of visualizing in any other way.

From Montreal life party will travel westward via Toronto and the Great Lakes, thence from Port Arthur to Winnipeg, the greatest primary grain centre on the continent, across the vast "prairie lands" and through the Rockies to Vancouver and Victoria.

On the return journey they will make the 550-mile cruise up the north Pacific Coast from Vancouver to Prince Rupert, one of the palatial Canadian National Railway steamers. This part of the journey will give the party a splendid idea of the development in the mining, lumbering and pulp and paper industries of British Columbia, with all their future possibilities. At Prince Rupert, Canada's most northerly Pacific port, hewn out of the solid rock of Kalen Island, there will be every opportunity to gain an insight into the enormity of the halibut and salmon industry of the province. From Prince Rupert eastward the party will be come acquainted with the Skeena River, with its historic and romantic traditions, its arresting grandeur, and its fame as one of the most prolific salmon streams in the world. They will see too, some of the Bulkley and Nechako River Valley country, one of the new fields of settlement opened up in the west. Unknown to the vast majority of Canadians, the luxurious valleys that lay between the mountain ranges in this area are suitable for mixed farming, dairying, fruit growing

Thrilling Story Of Run In Pathfinding Auto On Trip Through The Rockies

Conflicting the thrilling and at times hair-raising pathfinding run from Edmonton to Vancouver, the entire distance through Canadian territory, the Edmonton Automobile pilots, C. W. Niemeyer and Frank Silverthorn, who ended their journey at Victoria recently, gave a graphic account of the trip.

They described their journey as one of marvellous beauty and remarkably hard work, but they said that they had opened the pathway to Edmonton and that the expenditure of but comparatively small amount of money would make it a permanent and pleasant trail for the tourist. They encountered muck, burned bridges, rock slides, grizzly bears, railroad trains, windstorms and furious rains;

but they came along with only three blow-outs and those caused by rail spikes.

Leaving Edmonton on the evening of June 17th, the car proceeded westward with a heavy load. The car weighed 1,800 pounds, carried two to four men and 1,600 pounds of baggage. The outfit consisted of picks and shovels, axes, hammers, four twelve-foot, ten-inch planks and several shorter pieces; a complete set of tools and spare parts; two spare tires and a spare wheel; fifty gallons of gas and five gallons of oil. They made the entire run on forty-one gallons of gas and six quarts of oil, and came every foot of the way on their own wheels via deserted railroad grade, active railways, tote roads and Yale road.

From Edmonton they proceeded through the Yellowhead Pass trail, taking the abandoned Grand Trunk Railway grade near the mountains and following it to Jasper.

They picked up Baldy Bobb, a well-known mountain guide, who was with them throughout the trip. At Jasper they took to the steel railway and bumped the ties to Lucerne, resuming the abandoned grade one mile west of there and following it to Red Pass. They then took the trail to Lake Louise and the old tote road thence to Alberta, steel to Blue River and Avola, thence tote road to Lytton, steel and tote road to Hope and the Yale road to Vancouver, and then by Canadian Pacific ferry to Victoria.

The pathfinders reached Victoria with blistered hands and sore muscles. They brushed and built miles of roads, constructed thirty-one bridges, some of which were good enough to be called permanent structures; they killed a fourteen-foot grizzly bear with a 303 rifle and took 200 pictures of the wild life of the trail. Rocky Mountain sheep, birds and so on.

From Edmonton to Edson they struck one strip where they averaged only a mile an hour owing to the necessity of building brush trails and little bridges across muskeg country. It was on this period of the run that a great rainstorm came down and made a temporary mass of things.

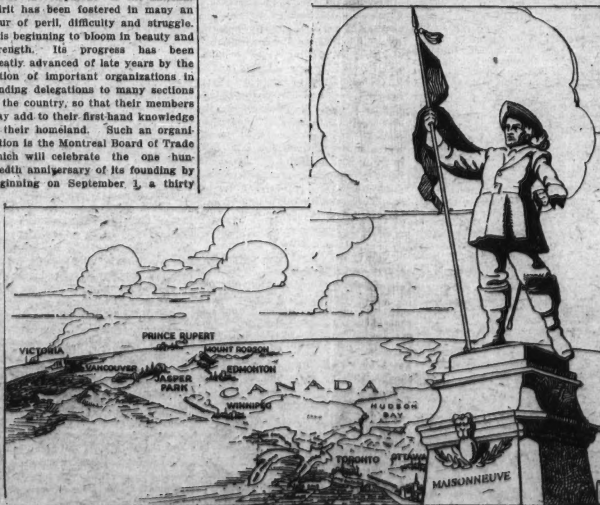

Entering the mountains proper, they passed through marvellous country, presenting a variety of views that could not be surpassed in America. Mr. Niemeyer is familiar with the Great motor highways of the United States. His desert and mountains and mighty parks, and he says they passed desert areas of sage-brush that were the same as the Great American desert; mountain scenery that rivalled Colorado and Yellowstone Park. A portion of the Thompson River canyon could well be called the Yellowstone of Canada. Great, brilliantly colored ravines and hills of rock and verdure, terrific cliffs and wonderland forests.

The car was driven on the railroads, around curves and along precipices where the variation of a hair would have thrown them hundreds of feet to death. The car wheels straddled the rails, the outer wheel being on the outer edge of the ties. The ties in many instances were projecting over a yawning space which fell straight to the roaring river.

At one point where erosion had worn away the tote road for some hundreds of feet they went down to the river and "lead" a trail through the water, around a rocky point, and then back to the road. At another they found a rock as large as a house right in front. They had to cut their way around, through shale rock. One section was a mass of fallen timber due to a great windstorm that came down on them. This was near Tete Jaune Cache. They cut their way through. Everywhere they went they left a passable trail behind them.

There was one near accident, they say. They were proceeding on steel toward a tunnel, and had not been notified of an extra train. It came belching out before they reached the entrance. Niemeyer took the only chance, swinging off against a pile of rocks, bending an axle and jarring his friends, but permitting the train free passage.

Speaking of the trip in general, Mr. Niemeyer said the route they took merely needed improvement to make it a popular and pleasant motor trip. The stretch of the Cariboo Trail was as good road as he had ever driven on.

Liniments Won't Relieve Pain Between the Eyes

That pain is not rheumatism or neuralgia. Many folks think so. It is due to Catarrh, plain ordinary Catarrh and needs attention right now. Catarrh is the name of a wonderful invention that is daily fixing up chronic cases of weak throat, bronchitis and catarrh. Every breath through the inhaler is laden with soothing, healing substances that destroy all diseased conditions in the breathing organs. It can't fail to help, because it goes where the trouble really exists—and doesn't attempt to relieve an illness in the head or throat by means of medicine taken into the stomach. There is no suffer from a grippy cold or any winter ill that won't find benefit in Catarrh. This is employed by Physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00. Small size 50c, sample size 25c, all storekeepers or the Catarrh Co., Montreal.

Bar B Ranch,
August 14th, 19—

I am so angry with Mr. Livingston that I could revert to the days of my ungovernable childhood and kick and scream. Not for years have I been filled with a rage so helpless, so hopeless, and so unreasonable. I flatter myself that I can stand teasing with the next one—but Don Livingston is the most exasperating person I have ever met! He seems to consider it his mission in life to plague me to the limit of my endurance, and when he has reached that point he adds insult to injury by laughing at me. Perhaps he is merely trying to pay me back for the blunder I made at Elba. And that reminds me that Mary did not know who he was at that time; she had never met Mr. Bingham's partner, and, not being particularly interested in him, did not connect him with the Don Livingston of Elba until after Mr. Bingham went to Winnipeg last month. Then, when it occurred to her that I might come here, she could not resist the temptation to keep the secret from me. In the hope that it might be productive of amusement for her and embarrassment for me.

When I try to put the cause of my anger into words, it seems a very small thing indeed, and I am ashamed that I allowed my annoyance to be seen. I do not know what Mrs. Bingham will think of me.

Last night, Saturday, Mr. Paget called. He is rather an extraordinary

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirit and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I had so much I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect."

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I can only testify today to the great benefit received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box, and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to all who use it permanent relief it has given me."

being, I must admit; still, even if he is painfully lacking in a sense of humor, he is a gentleman and English. He plays beautifully and sings not too badly, and with Mr. and Mrs. Bingham as an appreciative audience, we sang several duets, and were having a truly enjoyable time untangling "Oh that we two were maying," when the serpent appeared.

Not that Mr. Livingston, with all his faults, has anything of the serpent about him! Forgive my scriptural metaphors. He came in through the kitchen, dressed—spurs and all—just as he had come off his horse after a day in the saddle, a big mug of milk in one hand, and a wedge of Lee's delectable raisin pie in the other. And as he came he sang, in a sympathetic tenor voice that should be put to better uses, quite the silliest and most sentimental of the popular songs of the time. Really, the contrast between him in riding-clothes and Mr. Paget in evening-dress was very striking.

Our duet stopped suddenly and Mr. Paget slipped into an improvised accompaniment of the song. He evidently knows that when Mr. Livingston begins anything he does not stop until he has finished it. "Don, I do wish you would not sing that insufferably silly stuff," said Mrs. Bingham when the song was ended. "Miss Elliot has never heard you sing anything worth while."

"Did you get tired of the horses?" asked Mr. Bingham.

"Evening, Livingston," put in Mr. Paget—jelly good song, that. In its own class, of course, Mrs. Bingham.

The three greetings were characteristic as was the compound reply. "Gee! I wish you people would go on with the dance, and let me eat!" My apologies, Mrs. Bingham. I'll sing Tosti's "Good-bye" for you just as soon as I finish this pie—but you must cry into your handkerchief, I don't want my spurs rusted. The horses were at the Agency, Jack. Glad to see you, Paget. do the orchestra stunt while I feed the brute, there's a good soul."

All this was said in one breath. Then Mr. Livingston returned to his light refreshments and did not speak again until they had gone the way of all flesh.

But we did not have Tosti's "Good-bye" (it was not sorry—I hate water-cooled sentiment), for Mr. Livingston was in a teasing mood, and as soon as he was ready for action he began to cry Mr. Paget, telling him the most awful "whoppers" about pioneer days in the West. And the worst of it is that he is sufficiently clever to add just enough truth to his stories to make them seem probable to one who is inclined to be credulous. For a while I rather enjoyed the novel experience of seeing someone else get my usual fare, but at last my patriotism overcame me and I entered the lists in the interests of Old England. Mrs. Bingham occasionally exclaimed, "Oh, Don!" after a more than usually direct shot, but Mr. Bingham paid very little attention to us. Finally, Mr. Paget began to realize that he was being butchered to make a Roman holiday, and he was indeed glad to see him rise to go home, for I feared a scene. Mrs. Bingham assured me afterwards that my fears were groundless, and that last night's performance was a common occurrence, in spite of which the principals were the best of friends.

"Well, what do you think of dear Lawrence, Miss Elliot?" asked Mr. Livingston when our guest had gone. "He is very nice and gentlemanly," I replied sweetly. "he made me feel quite as if I were at home. And he sings and plays so well—when he has a chance."

"One for you, Don!" laughed Mrs. Bingham.

"Rotten bad taste, I call it, for him to come here to his war-paint when he knows that we never dress for dinner," remarked Mr. Bingham, to my great surprise.

"Oh, I don't think so," replied Mrs. Bingham. "I consider it a compliment to us—don't you, Miss Elliot?"

"I certainly do," I agreed.

"You know, Jack," Mrs. Bingham went on, "we Canadians are careless about such things. And you have caught the habit from your Canadian wife, I suppose. I always put on a fresh dress for dinner and so does Miss Elliot, and I have never heard you complain that we are over-dressed."

"Of course I like to see my women-folk decently dressed," said Mr. Bingham grudgingly, "but a man here here he paused and looked to Mr. Livingston for assistance.

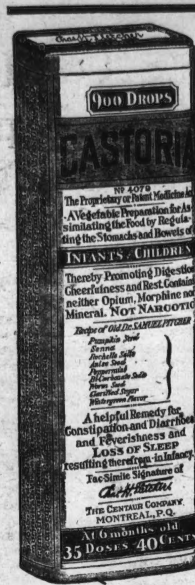

"Paget's not half bad," began Mr. Livingston, "but he does lay it on rather thick at times. It reminds me of the man who wouldn't shoot a rabbit because he was dressed for grouse. But I'll let you see what we can do about it. You have a dress-suit, haven't you, Jack?"

"Yes," said Mr. Bingham, "but I haven't had it on since the summer I was married—praise be!"

"I'll see that you get it out tomorrow, and I'll distinct my own, too. And what about Let's? We may as well do this thing properly while we are at it."

I said goodnight and went to bed! (To be continued)

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived. Make a mental note of this: It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Middle Ages Period

Extended From the Year 476 to the Year 1453 A.D.

The Middle Ages was a period of about a thousand years in the history of Europe, beginning with the fall of the Western Roman Empire in 476 A.D., and ending with the fall of the Eastern Roman Empire in 1453 A.D. The Middle Ages include years between the close of Classic Times and the dawn of the Modern Era, and constitute the epoch of feudalism, chivalry and the crusades. During this time the German barbarian tribes overran Western Europe. Upon the ruins of Roman civilization they imposed their own culture and institutions and founded the states of modern Europe as they exist today.

Quite a Slow Train

A fussy old fellow was making a journey on a branch line. The train had slowed down again after stopping several times. The old man's patience became exhausted, and, taking out his watch, he said to a fellow passenger: "How much is this train overdue?"

"Well, sir," was the reply, "a watch ain't no good; you need a calendar."

Using Volcano As Steam Engine

Boring into the Earth's Crust on Island of Hawaii

An observatory, under the direction of Professor Jøgen, has been established for some time at the crater of Kilauea, on the Island of Hawaii.

This volcano is remarkable because, while at all times manifesting a tremendous activity, it is not an explosive, but keeps its fires hidden underground.

It is believed that Kilauea's fires come from a great subterranean "pool," so to call it, of molten stone and metal that has pushed its way up through the earth's crust from the inconceivably hot interior of the globe.

Experiments, long contemplated, are now being undertaken by boring holes down through the rocks in the neighborhood of the crater. It is hoped by this means to tap sources of volcanic steam, which could be used to great advantage for industrial purposes in Hawaii. There are no deposits of coal on the island.

The Hawaiian Islands are wholly of volcanic formation, having been thrown up in an ancient epoch from the floor of the sea. There is plenty of evidence to show that in former times Kilauea was much more violently eruptive than it is today. It emitted vast lava flows, and threw out enormous quantities of ashes, deep beds of which remain to tell the tale.

In these ash-beds are found millions of "volcanic marbles," many of them perfectly spherical, which are most curious because nobody can tell why or how they were formed.

Investigate Coal Deposits

A party of explorers, including Professor W. G. Worcester, Provincial Ceramic Engineer, and Professor C. J. MacKenzie, of the Saskatchewan University, and W. G. Hastings, of the Bureau of Labor, left for Red Deer Lake to investigate sources of origin of coal deposits found on the banks of the Red River.

DIARRHOEA IS DANGEROUS

To Teething Babies DURING HOT WEATHER

Hot weather is a dangerous time for the babies when cutting their teeth, and all mothers should watch very closely for any sign of diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum or any other bowel trouble.

There is no remedy so safe and effective for diarrhoea as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and all mothers who have used it speak of it with the greatest confidence.

Mrs. James E. Green, Vermilion, Alaska, writes under date of Aug. 15th, 1921, as follows:—"A week ago my baby boy, just one year, and four months old, started cutting two stomach teeth, and was so sick he couldn't eat or sleep, and had the diarrhoea most terribly bad; his rectum was raw and bleeding, but after giving him Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry regularly for three days he was as well as any boy could be. I wouldn't be without your grand remedy for untold gold."

"Dr. Fowler's" is for sale at all dealers; price, 50c a bottle; put up by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

An Oldtimer Describes the "Highbrow" Dances.

An oldtimer hereabouts visited the city a short time ago. Nothing to do, he started out for an evening stroll. Hearing music in one of the cafes and being a bit hungry, he sauntered in. Dancing was in progress. That our friend got an eyeful is evinced by his description of the dances. The numbers witnessed he describes as dances of interpretation.

A young couple clasped each other around the waist with one arm, fell upon each others' chests, gazed heavenward and placed their palms together like a pious person does in prayer. Evidently it was an interpretation of "The Maiden's Prayer."

Closely following them was a couple interpreting "The Osteopath." He was patting her between the shoulders and rubbing the back of her neck with his right hand and massaging her upper left arm with his left hand, undoubtedly treating her for heart trouble.

As the dancers swept on a very tall young man and a short sweet-faced girl were interpreting "The Chiropractor." There could be no mistake, for his big, broad, muscular right hand was operating solely on her backbone and she was cringing a little at each adjustment.

"Le Danseur du St Vitas," was another beautiful interpretive dance, done to waltz music by a timid-looking, curly-haired girl who had forgotten to tie a string around her waist, and a young man who held her closely to his breast and looked pityingly and lovingly into her eyes, and tried in every way to show he sympathized with her in her misery, while he attempted to prevent her from jerking herself out of his arms. They did very little footwork, but she kept up a continual jerking of both shoulders and one hip while he tried to hold her. It was a sublime effort and might be called a draw, because it drew more attention than any of the other dances on the floor.

The orchestra managed a one-step or dog trot, "it was hard to tell which," a short, fat boy and a tall lean girl did one of the most beautiful dances of the evening. She bent over him and laid the end of her pretty, powdered nose under his right ear. He clasped her tightly around the waist with his right arm and held her up as best he could, while she staggered through the steps of the dance. He kept both his eyes glued ceilingward and did not even roll them. They were bumped into several times, but they never changed their position. It was "The Dying Calf."

The pianist in the orchestra also did a little interpreting on his own hook. It must have been "The Had Carrier," for he tried to climb up the front of the piano and over it without turning his head to spit. Then he would set he down and hit the bass keys a smash to imitate the awful of bricks falling to the floor.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

The Children of Today Are the Parents and Citizens of Tomorrow. In Years to Come the Destinies of Canada Will Be in Their Hands.

My dear Boys and Girls:

As I think about you all I wonder if some of you are perhaps suffering just now with measles or chicken pox, as I know one or two of my nieces and nephews in the city who have these complaints, and a very tiresome time it is for them and also for their parents. I am sure that any of you who have heard realize the value of good health and how necessary it is for us to take every precaution to safeguard it.

There are many ways in which we can care for our bodies in order to ensure good health and I think that the chief of these things is cleanliness. Cleanliness of person and cleanliness of mind is one royal road to good health. Then it is necessary to have good food, plain food, fresh air and pure water. It is of great value to realize the necessity of all these things for the safeguarding of our health when we are very young, because the younger we are when we start to take care of ourselves in this regard the more likely are we to have many long, useful years before us.

I am often sorry when I see children eating heavy, rich foods, because in this way their systems become clogged, their minds become heavy and dull and they cannot do the good work at school that they should do and are unable even to play with the same enjoyment as if they were eating plain, simple things. So sometimes when you feel agrieved because mother does not permit you to eat some unwholesome dainty of which you are fond, remember that she is wise and is being firm for your own good, because she wishes you to develop well physically and mentally, not because she merely wishes to deprive you of something you like to have.

As you know I am interested in all my nephews and nieces and hope they will continue to write to me. I would like to have the dates of all your birthdays and shall be glad to have you send these in as soon as possible.

I will not write more now, but shall hope to receive many letters from you very soon. Address, "Aunt Betty," 903 MacCallum-Hill Building, Regina, Sask.

Yours affectionately,
AUNT BETTY.

RIP VAN WINKLE

Rip's story was soon told for the whole twenty years had been as a night. The neighbors stared when they heard it; some were seen to wink and put their tongues in their cheeks.

It was determined to take the opinion of old Peter Vanderdonk on the matter, who was seen slowly advancing up the road. He was a descendant of the historian of that name, who wrote one of the earliest accounts of the province.

Peter was the most ancient inhabitant of the village and well versed in all the wonderful events and traditions of the neighborhood. He recollected Rip at once and corroborated his story in the most satisfactory manner. He assured the company it was a fact that the Catskill Mountains had always been haunted by strange beings; that it was affirmed by the great Henry Hudson, the first discoverer of the river and country, kept a kind of vigil there every twenty years with his crew of the ship Half Moon, being permitted in this way to revisit the scenes of his enterprise and keep a guardian eye upon the river and the great city called by his name; and that his father had once seen them in their old Dutch dresses playing at ninnipins in a hollow of the mountain.

To make a long story short, the company broke up and returned to their more important concern of the election. Rip's daughter took him home to live with her. She had a snug, well furnished house and a cheery farmer for a husband.

Rip now resumed his old walks and habits. He soon found many of his former cronies, though all rather worse for the wear and tear of time, and preferred making friends among the rising generation with whom he soon grew into great favor.

Having nothing to do at home and having reached that happy age when a man can be idle with impunity, he took his place once more on the bench at the inn door and was revered as one of the patriarchs of the village, and a chronicle of the old times "before the war."

He used to tell his story to every stranger that arrived at Mr. Doornik's hotel; the old Dutch inhabitants almost universally gave it full credit.

The End.

Letter to Aunt Betty

Eaton, Sask., Jan. 16, 1921.

Dear Aunt Betty,

I have seen your letters and all of the other girls letters in print. So I thought I would join in with you. I am a girl of eleven, and my name is Irene. I am in the sixth grade in school, and probably will pass into the seventh grade. Our teacher's name is Miss Lee, and I like her very well. And she is awful short beside the one we had last time. We have a nice time going skating.

The weather up here is fine. I am a girl that does not want to stay in the house; I would rather be out and work. I have a little dog and his name is Brownie; he let him come as he is so awful follows us all over, but we do not small. Well I don't think I can write any more as I cannot think of any more, so I think I will have to close. With love to you and all of the other boys and girls.

Yours affectionately,
IRENE HANSEN.

THE KING OF THE GOLDEN RIVER

Just as Gluck spoke there came a double knock at the house door, yet heavy and dull as though the knocker had been tied up, more like a puff than a knock.

"It must be the wind," said he, "nobody else would venture to knock double knocks at our door."

No! it wasn't the wind: there it came again very hard, and what particularly astounding, the knocker seemed to be in a hurry and not in the least afraid of the consequences. Gluck went to the window, opened it and put his head out to see who was standing there in the rain.

It was the most extraordinary looking little gentleman he had ever seen in his life. He had a very large nose, slightly brass colored; his cheeks were very round and very red, and might have warranted a supposition that he had been blowing a fire for the last forty hours; his eyes twinkled merrily through long, silky eyelashes, his moustaches curled twice round like a corkcrew on each side of his mouth and his hair, of a curious mixed pepper and salt color, descended far over his shoulders. He was about four feet six in height and wore a pointed cap of nearly the same height decorated with a black feather some three feet long.

Gluck was so paralyzed by the peculiar appearance of his visitor that he remained fixed without uttering a word until the old gentleman turned round to look after his fly away cloak. In so doing he caught sight of Gluck's little yellow head jammed to the window.

"Hello!" said the little gentleman, "that's not the way to answer the door, I'm wet, let me in."

The little gentleman was wet. His feather hung down between his legs like a beaten puppy's tail, dripping like an umbrella; and from the ends of his moustache the water was running into his waistcoat pockets, and out again like a mill stream.

"I beg pardon sir," said Gluck, "but I really can't."

"Can't what?" said the old gentleman.

"I can't let you in sir—I can't indeed; my brothers would beat me to death sir, if I thought of such a thing. What do you want sir?"

"Want?" said the old gentleman petulantly. "I want fire and shelter; and there's your great fire there blazing, crackling and dancing on the walls, with nobody to feel it. Let me in, I say: I only want to warm myself."

Gluck had had his head by this time so long out of the window that he began to feel it really was unpleasantly cold and when he turned and saw the beautiful fire rustling and roaring and throwing long, bright tongues up the chimney, as if it were licking its chops at the savory smell of the leg of mutton his heart melted within him that it should be burning away for nothing.

"He does look very wet," said little Gluck, "I'll just let him in for a quarter of an hour."

Round he went to the door and opened it; and as the little gentleman walked in, there came a gust of wind through the house that made the old chimneys totter.

"That's a good boy," said the little gentleman. "Never mind your brothers, I'll talk to them."

"Pry sir, don't do any such thing," said Gluck, "I can't let you stay until they come; they'd be the death of me."

"Dear me," said the old gentleman, "I'm sorry to hear that. How long may I stay?"

"Only till the mutton's done sir," replied Gluck, "and it's a very brown."

HINTS FOR AWKWARD SITUATIONS

To Rest in a Gale.

To lie down and rest in the open air when a gale of wind is blowing, do not make the mistake of getting under a tree which provides a good roof high up, but has no wall. What we need is a wall, and a wall about eighteen inches in height will be quite high enough.

This may be provided by turning up the turf, by piling up stones, or perhaps a little hollow may be found with a natural sheltering wall. In a violent gale there is always a violent eddy in the neighborhood of a tree and thereabout may be seen in a cornfield after a storm, where the corn in the open is unharmed, but that near the tree is all beaten down. It is always warmer to lie down under a cloudy sky than under a clear sky, for the clouds act as a blanket. On sandy plains travellers often keep themselves warm when sleeping at night by burying all but their heads in the sand. The same plan is followed in snowy lands, the snow making a really warm covering and protection from the cold air.

A Simple Mattress.

When resting or sleeping in the open air, it is as necessary to have something to lie upon as to have proper covering for the body, otherwise the part of the body that is in contact with the earth may get chilled. All kinds of things will provide a useful mattress, and in this matter you may imitate the bird in making its nest. Dried grass, leaves, feathers, heather, wood shavings, bundles of fagots, newspapers and such material, can be used with advantage, and if the ground is really wet an excellent bedstead can be made from a heap of stones or a couple of tree trunks rolled together if such are available.

To Carry Water.

There are various ways of conveying water from one place to another when we have no pails or proper vessels for the purpose. Canvas bags, smeared with grease on the outside are quite waterproof after they have been soaked for a short time. A basket with oiled cloth arranged inside makes a useful bucket and if an old coconut shell is handy it may be used for boiling water. It is worth remembering that if we are carrying water in pails, some grass picked and placed on the water prevents it splashing on the water. A leaky vessel may be stopped temporarily with rag or grass well greased over.

DOMINOES GAMES

The Block Game

The simplest game with dominoes is known as the block game. The dominoes are placed on the table with their faces downwards and shuffled. Then each player draws one, and when they are turned up the player with the fewest spots or pips is the one to start the game. The dominoes are now shuffled again and each player takes seven pieces which he looks at but conceals from the other players.

The first player now puts a domino down, say the six-five and the next player has to play a piece with a six or five on it. This he places against the corresponding number and the next player's turn comes. If the second player puts down a six-three, then the third player would play to a five or three. Thus the play goes on until a player has used all his pieces when he wins the game. If there comes a deadlock and no player can match the numbers that are up, then all the outstanding pieces of the players must be turned up and he wins who has the fewest pips.

The Drawing Game

This game is played in exactly the same way as the block game, except that when a player cannot go, instead of passing he must draw from the unused stock of dominoes until he is able to play. Two dominoes, however, must always be left face downwards on the table and not drawn. In both games described is always best to play with the high pieces such as double six, six-five, double five and so on, first so that in the end no one can go, we may have as few pips left as possible.

Predicts Revolution In Greece As Result Of Turkish Army Successes

Rome.—A dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia from Smyrna says the gates of the city have been closed to exclude the hordes of refugees in flight before the Turkish Nationalist army. British subjects are leaving aboard a British ship, and the families of Greek officials and officers are departing. French and Italian flags have been hoisted over many houses to indicate that they are under the protection of those countries.

The dispatch adds that reports from Athens predict a revolution in Greece and the return of former Premier Venizelos to power.

The advices say that Mustafa Kemal Pasha is personally directing the advance of the Turks against the Greeks and has shown extraordinary gifts of strategy and military tactics. Considerable feeling was caused here by the report that two Italian soldiers, returning from Constantinople, had been attacked by Greeks at Piræus, one being killed and the other wounded. Following the attack, the Greek premier visited the Italian legation and expressed regret. He assured the minister the men who attacked the Italians would be punished and the families of the victims compensated.

LONDON.—The Times learns that King Constantine has left Athens. No suggestion is made as to where he has gone, or why.

Constantinople.—While the Turks are hastening to press their advantage over the Greeks in their advance towards Smyrna, the latter are rushing reinforcements to the scene and if General Tricoupe can restore the morale of his men, the Kemalists may yet be brought to a standstill, it is believed here.

Farmers May Shoot Ducks Out of Season

Saskatchewan Government Issues Order for Protection of Crops

Regina, Sask.—An order-in-council has been issued by the Provincial Government making it legal for farmers to shoot, out of season, wild ducks which are damaging grain crops.

Many reports have been received from districts where the birds are causing much havoc in the grain fields and at Duval, Sask., they are said to be so plentiful that the efforts of two boys employed for the sole purpose of driving them off proved unavailing.

British Coal for Boston

Boston.—British coal is pouring into Boston in such quantities that 14 tug vessels are riding in the lower harbor awaiting opportunity to discharge their cargoes, while two others are in the upper harbor. Their loads total 96,000 tons. Nearly one-quarter of a million tons have arrived in this port since the first shipment following the American miners' strike. Thirty-six steamers are en route from British ports for Boston, carrying up wards of 200,000 tons.

Fatal Mining Accident

Ferlie, B.C.—Dan Bodak is dead and George McAndrews slightly injured, following a cave-in at No. One Coal Mine at Coal Creek. Bodak, an unmarried Russian, was hit by a boom when the slide occurred. He was rescued within a few minutes, but died later of injuries. McAndrews also was buried by the cave-in, but his injuries are negligible.

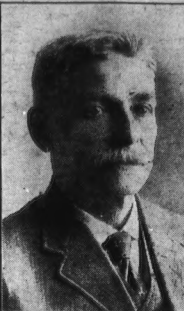

Amundsen's Air Pilot Returns

New York.—The deaths of three men and two women and a case of blindness have occurred in the Red Hood section of Brooklyn, which police attribute to wood alcohol poisoning.

Sentenced to Death For Counter-Revolution

Russian Newspaper Announces Conviction of Fifty-Five Persons

Moscow.—Fifty-five persons have been sentenced to death in South Russia upon conviction of counter-revolutionary activities, the newspaper Pravda announces. The Ukrainian Court at Kiev sentenced 48 members of Petlura's Cossack bands which, in connection with General Tsimanuk's forces, arose against the Ukrainian Soviet. All the convicted persons appealed.

At Simferopol, Nicolai Bozenko, a young officer who under an assumed name, proclaimed himself the Czar of Russia, several months ago, was sentenced to death, together with six followers, while Mme. Bozenko and seven others were sentenced to prison.

German Payroll Shows Increase

Civil Service Employees Get Thirty Per Cent. Raise

Berlin.—Germany's civil service payroll for September will show an increase of one hundred billion marks over August in consequence of negotiations between officials and employees held at the Ministry of Finance. A 30 per cent. raise in wages was decided upon, due to the increased cost of living.

The index figure on the cost of living throughout Germany rose 40.9 per cent. in August as compared with 32 per cent. in July.

Soliciting Funds For Irish Republican Cause

Widow of Mayor McWinney in States to Raise Money

New York.—Mrs. Muriel McWinney, widow of former Mayor Torrance McWinney of Cork, who died of starvation in Brixton Prison, London, in 1920, arrived on the President Arthur. She was accompanied by Linda Mary Kearns, Irish republican, and said the purpose of her visit was to raise funds for the dependents and orphans of the Irish republican cause and for hospitals of the wounded Irish republican army.

Railway Employees May Fight Award In Recent Wage Dispute

RUSSIA CONFIDENT OF PEACE IN FAR EAST

OUTCOME OF CONFERENCE WITH JAPAN IS CONSIDERED HOPEFUL

Moscow.—Russian Soviet officials appear extremely confident that the conference with the Japanese at Chang Chung will bring peace to the Far East and re-extension of Russia's sphere of influence to Vladivostok.

The railway administration is understood to be preparing to restore service on the European-Asia route with direct through trains from Moscow to Vladivostok while the newspapers announced the formation of a limited company to operate airplanes from Petrograd to the eastern city.

Already Russian trains de luxe are operating again as far as Chita, and Moscow now for the first time since 1918, foresees the Russian or a Russian allied flag waving again on the Pacific.

Return Of MacMillan Expedition From Arctic

Says Map of North Country Will Have to Be Revised

Sydney, N.S.—After penetrating into the frozen Arctic along the western coast of Baffin's Land to a point, he claims, never before reached by a white man, Donald C. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, reached Sydney on the schooner Bowdoin, on his return to civilization after 14 months in the north.

"I have learned that the salient points on the western coast of Baffin's Land are astronomically incorrect," said Captain MacMillan to the Canadian Press on his arrival here.

"The geography of that country has been wrong for years back owing to the fact that the first explorer who went there, known to the world as 'Northwest' Fox, did not give accurate correct data. I was the first white man in that country since Fox made his trip, and I went further along the coast than he did. Our party spent 300 days on the ice, making observations from points never before reached by a white man."

The entire map of that country would have to be revised, Captain MacMillan declared.

Bennett Balloon Race

Geneva.—Lieut. Ernst de Myster, of Belgium, was officially declared the winner of the recent international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett cup. Captain H. E. Honeywell, one of the American entrants, was ranked second, and Maurice Bismans, French entry, was ranked third.

Extend Governor's Term

London.—The Colonial Office, says a Reuter dispatch from Sydney, Australia, has agreed to a year's extension of Sir Walter Davidson's term as Governor of New South Wales. All the parties in the state express satisfaction.

Ottawa.—Before the matter could be discussed and decided upon by his Executive Committee, Charles Diehl, Secretary of Division No. 4, Railway Employees' Union, Montreal, sent a telegram to Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, protesting against the Government accepting the majority award of the Board of Conciliation adjudicating the dispute between the 36,000 railway shomps and the members of the Railway Association of Canada. The telegram pointed out that the award was not a settlement of the trouble, and demanded that the case be re-opened.

Toronto.—James Simpson, a member of the Board of Conciliation, whose other two members, Alex Smith, Chairman, and Isaac Pitblado, K.C., representing the railroads, recommended tentative wage reductions to shop workers of seven and nine cents an hour, believes the 30,000 affected employees will fight the majority award.

Mr. Simpson submitted a minority award, which pointed out that the board did not properly inquire into the wage reduction. "On the ground that the principal issue was not dealt with by the board, I feel I can express the opinion that the affected workers will fight the ruling," said Mr. Simpson, although he was not prepared to say the feeling of the men would lead to a strike.

Expect Italian Immigrants

Huge Colonization Scheme Is Now Under Way

Montreal.—A huge colonization scheme to settle Italian emigrants in Canada is projected by the Government of Italy, which has sent Joseph De Micheli, General Commissioner of Emigration, to make a minute survey of industrial and agricultural conditions in the Dominion, with a view to ascertaining the quota and the type of immigrant most needed here.

Mr. De Micheli passed through Montreal en route to Ottawa, where he will meet members of the Cabinet and confer with the heads of all departments of labor and immigration.

Following these meetings he will cover each of the provinces from Ontario westward, accompanied by Jules Bolognini, Italian Consul to Canada. When Mr. De Micheli completes this survey in Canada he will make a similar one of the United States.

In explaining his mission, Mr. De Micheli declared it had three chief reasons: First, to ascertain the class of immigration most needed by the Dominion which Italy could supply; second, to secure Canadian capital, which would be joined to Italian capital with the view of establishing Italian farmers on Canadian land; and, thirdly, to collect detailed data on actual conditions in the Dominion, and to determine whether it is in the best interest of the Italian Government to embark upon the contemplated colonization scheme.

France May Utilize German Materials

Plan to be Considered by Special Government Committee

Paris.—An agreement for the restoration of France's war-devastated regions utilizing chiefly German materials came up for consideration before the Special Governmental Committee charged with consideration of deliveries of merchandise by Germany.

The plan has been under negotiation at a series of conferences between Hugo Stinnes, German industrial magnate, and Senator De Luberg, President of the Federation of Cooperative Societies of the French Liberated Regions representing 120,000 persons, with war losses aggregating more than 15,000,000,000 francs.

Explorers Return to Halifax

Halifax.—A dispatch from Sydney states that the exploration schooner Bowdoin, carrying Donald B. MacMillan and party, arrived in the harbor Sept. 6 from Baffin Bay. The expedition set out from Boston a year ago and has been in the Arctic regions since that time.

Finest Crop Since 1915.

"Alberta is harvesting this year the finest crop since 1915," declared George Hill, Dominion Grain Inspector, in Calgary last week. Reports from all parts of the country indicate that the average grade will be high, there having been so far very little frost, no hail, and no extremes of dry or wet weather.

Safety First.

"Safety First" is a good maxim in most things, but particularly so in relation to the investment of money. The rich may afford to speculate and to take the risks attendant on high rates of interest.
Those whose means are moderate must be careful to see that there is absolute security in their investments. For such people there is no other form of investment which takes such a high rank, combining absolute security with liberal interest, as the bonds of the Dominion of Canada.
Holders of Dominion bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest, maturing Dec. 1, 1922, can re-invest their money at the same rate of interest by exchanging the old bonds for new ones running for either five years or ten years, as the bondholder may prefer. Arrangements for carrying on

The Natural Wealth of Canada
Grain

THE Northwest was a barren waste only forty-odd years ago. Today, in a thousand-mile belt across the three-prairie provinces, is one of the greatest grain-producing areas in the world. For the year 1921 the total value of the wheat, oats, barley and rye produced throughout Canada was estimated by the Government at $432,984,750.

Prince Not Wealthy

Financial Demands Absorb Greater Part of Yearly Income

Although probably nobody will maintain that the Prince of Wales should be classed as a poor man, yet he is by no means as affluent as is often said. It is true that his apparent income runs into about 200,000 a year, but the financial demands upon him are so heavy that this sum is very considerably shrunk before he can really call any part of it his own. Incidentally, it may be of interest to know that, although parliament granted certain sums for the Prince's affairs, he was considerably out of pocket as a result of his somewhat extensive trip—Christian Science Monitor.

Do Large Breaths Hurt? Is Your Chest Wheezy?

Proper treatment is a vigorous rubbing of the chest, neck and side with good oil. This will help the lungs to expand and give relief. The chest is often sore from the use of the lungs. Just try Nervine for chest tightness, cough and asthma. It is a wonderful liniment, saves the whole family from numerous minor ills and should be in every home. Large bottles, 50c at all dealers.

Why the Rush?

A remarkable increase in the volume of motor traffic in Canada is shown by returns compiled by the Department of Customs. According to their registrations 617,326 automobiles entered Canada to tour during 1921, as compared with 92,300 for the previous year.

RUN DOWN PEOPLE WEAK AND NERVOUS

Thousands in This Condition Can Easily Help Themselves

There are thousands of people who bear the pain and discomfort of minor ills in the hope that the indisposition is only temporary, and will be outgrown in time. Often such illnesses are not serious enough to require the attention of a doctor, but will respond to intelligent home treatment if a reliable remedy is used. Women busy with a multitude of household cares, or girls studying hard in school, easily fall a prey to that condition of bloodlessness known as anemia. The trouble need not be serious if prompt measures are taken to check it in its early stages. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will restore the elements needed to bring the blood back to strength, and once the blood regains its healthy quality the entire body will soon show the benefit.

Among the many who have found benefit through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Albert W. Smith, Missoula, P.E.I., who says: "I was very much broken down in health, had pain in the region of my heart, and was so short of breath that if I went upstairs I would have to lie down as soon as I reached the top. Then a strange nervous twitching of the muscles took possession of me, and every muscle in my body would apparently be twitching. I became very emaciated, and my family were much alarmed as to my condition. At this time I read an article in our home paper concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a trial. The result was that in a short time I felt much improved, and under further use of the pills I felt like a new woman, had gained in weight and was in every way better. I would urge anyone afflicted as I was to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The U.S. and Europe's Plight

The Reluctance of America to Hold Out a Helping Hand

We sit yawning on the bench and criticize the stroke of drowning nations. If our observers are accurate they must at each recurring conference report that continental Europe is drifting from bad to worse, with no relief in sight; the statesman of our lately associated nations almost at the end of their resources; civil war with anarchy and ruin to follow, audibly muttering around the corner. And so on obscuring. As to holding out a helping hand, before it is too late, to our friends, our neighbors, our customers in trade, and our fellow-travelers of the garnered fruits of centuries of culture, that would be forming "entangling alliances," and is not to be thought of—From the New York World.

OIL LIGHT BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

BURNS 94% AIR

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, eyes better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 31 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or soot, no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (condol).

The inventor, T. V. Johnson, 678 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, without experience or money, make $250 to $500 per month.

France a Scapegoat

France finds itself in the position of a man who has suffered simpataneously from a fire, a highway robbery and a defalcation; whose debtors refuse to pay what they owe, and whose creditors not only insist on collecting their claims but throw obstacles in the way of his getting from his debtors the money with which to pay them. It may be that there is nothing so such a man except ruin and bankruptcy, but he can hardly be blamed for standing out against that conclusion as long as he can.—Youth's Companion.

Internally and Externally It is Good.

The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, cough, whooping cough, pain in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

Handel's Appetite

Said to be Able to Eat a Meal That Would Satisfy Five Ordinary Appetites

Many great musical composers had exceptionally large appetites. When Handel composed a rule and he generally took the precaution of ordering a meal for three. Once, on asking, "Is de timer retty?" at a tavern where he was little known, he was told, "as soon as the company comes," and he astonished the waiter by stating himself with the remark, "Den pring to be thinner—I'm de company!" Handel, always voracious, delighted in dining alone, and was known to consume a meal that would have satisfied five ordinary appetites.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbance in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the doctor's action of the bow is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the system and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

New York Radio Companies

Figures just announced indicate that in New York State alone, during the month of March, 1921, 17,717 new radio corporations were organized.

CATARHAL DEAFNESS

Is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARHAL MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing will be permanently lost.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

Keep Younger Longer

So far as we can see the situation up to the man of sixty or seventy years of age today is much younger than the man of the same years was a quarter of a century ago. When you look around it is remarkable how much of the work of the world, and much of it very important work, you will find being done by men who are rubbing up, or to have passed, the three quarters of a century mark. And who will say that this change isn't to the good? What is the use coming to the carpet slipper age until you have got—Christian Guardian.

The Fruits of the Earth

New and Old Fruits Now Being Cultivated

Out of 100,000 known species of plants, man has brought into cultivation only about 300 species. During the past two thousand years we have not discovered and cultivated a single plant which can rival maize, rice, the sweet potato, the date, small grains and the banana, which was discovered three or four thousand years ago. Among new fruits that have been found recently is the fajoa, a South American fruit which is being grown in California. It possesses the refreshing taste of the pineapple and the sweetness of the strawberry. The fajoa is a new fruit which has been cultivated in Northern China. It was first known some years ago and is now being grown in California and Texas. It is usually eaten candied form, and is preferred by many people to the date, which it resembles. The fajoa, a Central American fruit about the size of an orange, is being grown in Florida; while the roseapple, a new acid fruit grown in Southern California, is used for jellies and in the making of refreshing beverages.

Pat's Interpretation

His neighbor: "Why are you wearing so many coats on such a hot day?"

Pat: "Well, you see, O'm gosh! to paint me barn, ain't it says on the can, 'To obtain the best results put on at least three coats.'"

Nights of Agency come in the train of asthma.

The victim cannot live, and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It breaks the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as sound and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

A baby hippopotamus, age four years and weighing a ton, was recently transported from the Philadelphia Zoological Garden to Boston, Mass.

A specially built motor truck, the animal was purchased with $5,000 in pennies and other small coins contributed by the school children of Boston.

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them.

Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Extirminator, an excellent remedy.

Safety Ships

New Device Overcomes Difficulty of Launching Lifeboats

Lifeboats arranged on deck on rails, so that they can be run to that part of the ship from which launching is possible, are features of the new steamship Mecklenburg, claimed to be the best yet in safety ships, which has just made her maiden trip between Folkestone and Funching.

In many cases of disaster at sea it has been found impossible to launch all of the boats on a ship because of the list. By this new device this difficulty is said to be overcome.

The Potato Market.

The new crop is still making satisfactory progress and dealers report that many producers are making inquiries as to what the price will be.
There is nobody in a position to forecast on that. There is said to be not a large crop in B. C., and that should help the Alberta producer.

The new crop so far shows
a very fine quality and fields which have been sampled show a good growth, freed from scab and a nice size.
If Alberta can put on a good grade of potatoes this year it should mean much less importing from B. C. than in former years. There altogether too many people who think they have to buy B. C. potatoes, and the difference in most cases is only in the price. Any person who can't get Alberta potatoes that are good enough to eat, must be pretty darn fussy.

point. Their car struck the hole, turned turtle, throwing the occupants out, each of whom received injuries. Considerable difficulty was ex-
